Dahlias

North Dighton,

--

Massachusetts

Greeting.

In issuing this, my fifteenth catalog, this season you will see after looking through its pages, that it contains a most complete list of novelties and standard varieties which have been thoroughly tested by me as well as other growers throughout the world.

In the past my catalog has contained many more varieties, but it has been my aim for years to catalog only dahlias of merit which will be satisfactory to my customers. With a little care you can get as good or better results than my own gardens have produced. I might say I still have in stock many varieties which have been catalogued in previous years on which I can make satisfactory prices. This list cancels all previous quotations, and the prices are based strictly on cash with order or bulbs will be sent C. O. D. I shall not be responsible in any way for the crop other than to replace such stock as may prove defective or untrue or its value in other stock, listed herewith. All dahlias are sent out in bulbs only. On receiving your order and same is not satisfactory please notify me at once. Send your orders as early as possible and have them reserved for you for shipment at some future date. Be sure to write your name very plainly. Stamps will be received on orders of small amount. Money orders are preferred. In ordering it is well to give a second choice in case I should be sold out.

The prices herewith include free delivery to all points east of the Mississippi River. Towns and cities west of this river add 2 cents per bulb. Please remember that large or small orders will have careful attention. Any information regarding the growing or care of dahlias will be cheerfully and promptly given. Please remember I issue no wholesale catalog but give discount to trade. If this catalog is of no interest to you please hand it so some friend who is a lover of dahlias. I would appreciate the acknowledgement on receipt of this catalog.

Wishing you a prosperous year, I remain,

Yours truly,

GEORGE H. WALKER.

DAHLIA CULTIVATION

Location—The dahlia requires first a sunny, airy location, and yet sheltered from the heavy summer winds. If dahlias are planted in the shade the result will be that they will grow to a great height and produce but very few flowers of a weak nature.

Soil—Dahlias will grow in any or all kinds of soil, if properly fertilized, with very good results. Most failures are due to neglect in having the soil thoroughly worked before planting by spading deep and making as light as possible.

Fertilizing—Give your garden a good coat of stable or cow dressing and spade well into the soil in the fall where you intend to plant them in the spring. Then when planting time comes you can use any good commercial fertilizer, about a handful to the hill, well covered over before setting the bulb.

Time to Plant—Dahlias may be planted with good results from May 1st to July 1st. In our New England climate May 15 to first of June is perhaps as well as any time.

Depth to Plant—Place the tubers diagonally about three inches below the soil. If the ground is cold and very moist, it is far better to start them in shallow boxes, covering them with moss or earth; keep moderately wet and place them in a warm place or hotbed and they will start quickly. After they are up, say two inches, transplant them to your field two feet apart and the rows should not be nearer than three feet.

Feeding—After the plants are 8 to 12 inches high give them a good mulching of rotten cow dressing; some ground bone worked around the hill will be all right to use. As soon as the bulbs appear, spade in or rake off the dressing and water them with liquid made from sheep dressing or cow dressing. This ought to produce some fine blooms with good stems.

Hoeing and Cultivating—From the time the plants are out of the ground until they begin to bud and bloom the the ground should be well hoed and kept free from weeds.

Watering—This is the most important and yet difficult question to solve. There is no rule as to how and when to water, only one's judgment. Watering too much is as bad as not enough. But bear in mind if artificial watering is done it must be kept up from rain to rain, and when watering be sure to water enough to reach the roots. The best time to water is at sunset. ¶

Insects and Worms—One of our first pests is the cut worm which comes in time to cut the tender shoots. There is a remedy on the market in powder form called Vaporite, which it is claimed will destroy them.

Next comes the borer which is noticed by the wilting of the plants. The best way to kill him is to apply a weak solution of Parish green injected into the stock at the top where the stem is hollow.

We have the white and green aphids which can be kept in check by any of the nicotine solutions, sprayed over the plants.

The cinch bug, our worst enemy, can be kept in check by the use of Pyrol sprayed once or twice a week.

Lifting and Storing—After frost has taken and blackened the plants, cut them down, allowing a week or more before you lift and store them. Select a pleasant day for digging, between the hours of 9 and 3. Dry and shake off what dirt comes easily and pack them in a dry, cool cellar, which can be kept at 40 to 45 degrees.
